

The main takeaway here is that to get what you want, you need to provide value first.

Don't just think, "I want to sell my service."

You also need to remember that the person you're trying to sell to doesn't know you yet.

Once they trust you, that's when you'll get what you want.

Start by getting your foot in the door, offer value first, and then you'll begin making money.

On the next page, I'll explain how I create my posts on Reddit to get a lot of attention fast.
